Celebrate!

A collection of wonderful images from the “Celebrate What’s Right with the World” facebook page - featuring one of our frequent contributors:

Peter Spagnuolo

Through photography I have had the honor and privilege to express my love for life and happiness. Through this wonderful website that Dewitt Jones has put together I have been honored to show the photographic community my creativity, my photo skills and share my thoughts of celebration.

My images are more than photographs - they are an expression of knowing that there is a better way to look at life. After being privileged to live here on Mother Earth for more than 80 years, I thank you all for allowing me to share in “Celebrating What’s Right with the World”.

How a simple photo can show such beauty ... celebrate.
“Somewhere over the Rainbow...”
Dear God,
Let me take a minute not to ask you for anything - I just want to simply say, “thank you”. These roses are a symbol of your love and kindness to our family.
Airforce Academy Chapel, Colorado Springs - simplicity, yet so profound! "Celebrate What's Right with the World"
I loved growing up in the 50's. I find it's better to look back and say, "I can't believe I did that", than to look back and say, "I wish I did that."
Manarola, Italy, in the Cinque Terre, is literally a photographer’s paradise. It is truly hard to take a bad photo! What a wonderful way to celebrate.
Let there be many windows to your soul,
that all the glory of the world may beautify it.
His wife sent him out to buy a “grill” and this is what he came home with!
“I’m not getting old... I’m getting ‘Classic’!”
“Sticks and stones may break my bones ...”
His name is Gerald and he would love to join the other animals in the jungle dance, but everyone knows that giraffes can’t dance... Or can they? Celebrate the willingness to try!
Silhouette magnificence from the master ... celebrate.
Some people grumble that roses have thorns; I am grateful that thorns have roses ... “Celebrate What’s Right with the World.”
The sweet Peach Rose conveys a meaning of modesty, genuineness, sincerity and gratitude, but speaks of love silently in a language known only to the heart.
Photographing the beautiful Arno River in Florence, Italy, makes me realize that we live in a world full of beauty, charm and adventure. I thank the “Celebrate What’s Right with the World” site for showing us how to see, smell and touch the beauty of this amazing world.
Marina Grande - some of my favorite memories of Italy are from my brief stay on Capri... A wonderful celebration.
Cinque Terre, Italy – even though it was pouring rain during our stay, we were still able to celebrate.
In the DNA of Italians there is a bit of madness - of which the overwhelming majority is positive. It is genius, it is talent, it is the masterpieces of art. It is also the food, the fashion and everything that makes it Italy.
Whatever is rightly done, however humble, is noble ... celebrate.
Never the same sky, never the same colors, never the same sunset...

About Celebrate What’s Right with the World

Over 300,000 people have visited the Celebrate website since it went live 5 years ago. More than 10,000 people have ‘liked’ us on Facebook and more than 20,000 photographic celebrations have been posted!

Amazing! We have shared thousands of uplifting visual stories of joy and beauty, happiness and love.

For all of us who have been involved in the project, we see how much it has changed us. Not so much in an intellectual way, but rather in a deep and abiding emotional way. By seeing life as a celebration, by focusing on all we have to be thankful for, we find ourselves filling with gratitude. First, perhaps, for the big things in life. Now, more and more, for everything - every cloud, every tree, every person, every opportunity, every breath. Living life to the fullest is so much easier through the lens of celebration. Imagine what life would be like if everyone saw life that way.

Come to our sites and join the celebration!
